Manager and team member in research projects with national and international funding

-2001-2002: a member in the research grant entitled "An integrated master's program in accounting and management information systems" (grant CNFIS – 153, no. 44047/1198, project manager Nicolae Feleaga). The project was commissioned by the Academy of Economic Studies and the World Bank, and aimed at creating a functional structure and long-term partnerships with peer universities through the setup of a particular doctoral-awarding institution. This institution would allow co-supervision of doctoral programs, by providing the scientific and logistic support that would respond to the demands of the labor market and to the challenges imposed by the information society. These goals would also apply to the creation of a virtual master's program and to the design of a new master's curriculum.

-2002-2003: the project manager of the grant entitled "The analysis of creative accounting policies and the practice of fiscal optimization in a globalized world" (grant no. 456/2002). The project was funded by the National University Research Council of Romania. The aim of this project was to identify the most advanced practices of fiscal optimization and creative accounting in the context of a globalized economy. As a secondary goal, the team member investigated several successful experiments in attracting investors through fiscal and accounting standardization. The proposed measures for enhancing the accounting and fiscal policies of national firms were presented to the Ministry of Finance and to the academic environment.

2005: a member in the project entitled "Software solutions of optimized financial reporting for Romanian firms reporting in accordance with the European directives", funded by a private firm Alvintech SRL (contract no. 1097/2005, project manager: Ionescu Iuliana). In the context of the novel regulatory environment regarding financial reporting, local firms were expecting to be able to produce better and more complex annual reports, characterized by higher relevance, intelligibility and comparability.

=2005-2006: a member in the team of the project entitled "The design of a model for the improvement of the national accounting system – the implicit condition for Romania's integration in the European Union", funded by the National University Research Council (grant no.1126, project manager: Feleaga Nicolae). The goal of the project was to supply a diagnosis of the development stage of the Romanian accounting system. The axes of the study were the following: measuring the relevance of accounting information in managerial decision-making, identifying the factors that influence the quality of the supplied information, and conducting an empirical study on listed companies on the Bucharest Stock Exchange. The results of this project were debated by the Consultative bureau for accounting standard-setting (under the supervision of the Ministry of Finance), and were brought to the attention of the Body of Expert Accountants of Romania (CECCAR) and the Body of Licensed Financial Auditors (CAFR).

-2005-2006: a member of the project entitled "A study of the internationalization of Romanian accounting: the harmonization of domestic accounting practices with the European directives and IFRS", funded by the National University Research Council (grant no. 1129/2005, project manager: Ionascu Ion). The goal of the project was to analyze accounting standard-setting in the historical context of international convergence, taking as a benchmark the business environment of other European countries. The project was undertaken as a mixed research initiative, encompassing several regulatory reviews as well as empirical and case studies. The results of the study were published in a series of articles in professional journals, as well as a report handed to the Ministry of Finance.

-2007-2008: a member in the project entitled "Developing a methodology for the security and audit of management information systems", funded by the National University Research Council (grant A no.424/2007, project manager: Gheorghe Mirela). The results of the project were included in the academic curricula for the master's program, concerning certain software modules to be presented to the students, as case studies for the analysis of security threats and means of counter-strike, in the area of IT governance and IT audit. These initiatives help to strengthen the link between the national regulatory framework regarding financial audit and the most advances requirements of information systems in the field of security.

-2009-2011: the project manager of the project entitled "Measuring the differences between national accounting standards and international accounting standards", funded by the National University Research Council (grant no.1859/2009). The goal of the project was to establish a methodology regarding the measurement of the divergences between national accounting standards and IFRS. For this purpose, we intend to clarify several aspects: the existence of inhibiting and assisting factors in the conservation of divergence points between national and international standards; the analysis of the strategies of international standard-setters; the validity of measuring these differences. We created a database of differences between domestic and international standards, with the purpose of assessing the impact these points of divergence have on the quality of financial reports, and to propose ways of enhancing the comparability of financial reporting in Europe.
